POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Governor Earl Warren's announcement during the Annual Governor's Conference at Columbus, Ohio, that he will not seek the G.O.P. nomination for President or Vice President—and is not entertaining the hope that he will be "drafted" for either office by the Republican National Convention—has gone a long way toward clarifying California's position in the 1944 presidential picture.

With Governor Warren definitely out of the race, there is every likelihood that California's May presidential primary next year will develop into a free-for-all, with several of the outstanding contenders making a bid to capture this state's powerful delegation to the Republican Convention.

Plans are already being formed to place a ticket on the May primary ballot pledged to Wendell Willkie and it is probable that Governor Warren will be asked to head up the Willkie delegation. It is also considered possible that Ohio's "favoraite son," Governor John W. Bricker, may enter a ticket in the California primary pledged to his candidacy, although the Bricker camp may dodge a show down with Willkie in this state.

Supporters of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, apparently precluded from running a ticket openly pledged to their man, due to his repeated declarations that he is not a candidate, may fall back on the strategy of seeking a nominally "uninstructed delegation" from California, with the majority of the ticket secretly pledged to support a draft Dewey movement at the Convention.

The old political maxim that "you can't beat somebody with nobody" might mitigate against the success of an "uninstructed delegation," however, if there are other tickets on the same ballot, as there doubtless will be, pledged to specific candidates.

There is laso the bare possibility that a ticket may appear on the California ballot pledged to that doughty warrior, General Douglas MacArthur, but this possibility is discounted heavily in informed circles. It is known that a California political scout was sent to Australia recently to try to interest MacArthur in becoming a candidate, but the general responded with characteristic frankness that he had a lot of unfinished business to attend to where he was—and that he would rather lick the Japs than be President!

When the fray warms up, it is quite probable that some of Governor Warren's friends may seek to have him reconsider, using the argument that his candidacy might avert a scrap in the party organization, but Warrens' statement at Columbus was unqualified—and it is not likely that he will go back on it.

School Children Lead In Bond And Stamp Sales

The school children of Northern California are the champion War Bond buyers of the United States. According to reports received today from Washington almost half the total number of "Minute Man" flags flying over the nations public schools are on Northern California school flag poles.

To earn a "Minute Man" flag a school must have at least 90 per cent of its enrollment participating in War Bond and Stamp buying every month. Of the 3,000 flags in the country 1,296 are held by Northern California schools, one of which flies at Campbell Union High school.

Various special drives and the steady stale of stamps and bonds at the Campbell High school totaled $35,015.85, which is considered very good for a school of this size.

Campbell Union Grammar school stamp and bond sales, from shortly after the opening of school in September, 1942 and ending the first of June totaled $9,190. The leaders and students of both schools earned a great deal of credit and praise for their excellent work.

The end of this school year saw an enrollment of 472,510 students in Northern California investing $8,180,330 in bonds and stamps. It is expected that a grand total since the beginning of the program in the spring of 1942 will reach $10,000,000.

A NATION at war must call upon its peoples for many sacrifices, but loyal citizens gladly make them. The loss of life and suffering in any great conflict bring sorrow into homes all over the land. To assist our country with our means seems a small thing in view of the stirring tales of heroism and the many acts of thoughtfulness for others manifested in the face of grave dangers that have already come to us from Bataan on the west to Africa on the east and from the Aleutians to the Solomons.

Equaling the bravery of the soldier is that displayed by the nurse. These fine young women carry on their ministry of relief in spite of bursting shells and machine gun bullets. They gladly leave all material comforts if duty calls them. Dispatches from the front reveal their patriotic devotion to their calling.

If war seems awful, remember that the money we lend our Government is not used alone for the manufacture of implements of war. It is also spent for works of mercy; to heal the sick, to bind their wounds, to bring them back to us and save them for lives of future usefulness. Surely no one can talk of generosity when his money is to be repaid to him with interest.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

One hundred and sixtey-seven years ago, a little band of early Americans, with high ideals and high courage, signed a covenant together—a covenant of freedom, which they pledged each other to defend with "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

That covenant, born in travail, defended in blood, has become our birthright—our Declaration of Independence. It has been handed down to us, from one generation to the next, as our priceless heritage. And we are fighting today as we did in 1776, to protect it—with "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

American boys, as this is written, are dying on far distant battlefields, in defense of this covenant of freedom. And thousands of others will die heroically defending it during the months that stretch ahead.

What, then, is this possession we have which is dearer than life itself? As we commemorate the Fourth of July this year, and rededicate ourselves to this, our American creed, we have need to re-examine it. Our forefathers wrote

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness—That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed . . . . "

A simple creed is that. But it cradled human liberty throughout the world. And today in enslaved nations, men are waiting for the hour of liberation—ready to give their lives in revolt against those who have trampled on this code of free men; ready to strike a new blow for freedom.

Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness—these are rights men must have, if we are to escape a complete blackout of civilization. These are the rights we are defending.

THE WOMEN!

Every day, the newspapers publicize the ever-increasing activities of women, as they step forward to replace men called for war duty. The WAACS, the WAVES, the SPARS, have gradually shown their abilities to fill in much needed cracks and crevices in helping the Armed Services.

Some of these organizations, however, have been too much publicized by critical mischief-making, and find it hard to fill their needed quota of personnel.

It's not the first time a new step for women has met the balky criticism of the traditionally-minded Actually women have only been "people" in the eyes of the law for the last 30 years. Sylvia Pankhurst, around 1912, first set the male British populace by the ears. It was she who prepared the way for the Washington suffragettes with Howard Chandler Christy hair-do's, long, swathing draperies, wasp waists, and parasols.

But—credit where credit is due—hair and parasols to the contrary notwithstanding, they went their earnest way, until they got the right to vote.

The Pankhurst stone continues to roll down hill, gathering no moss. Women are not yet much organized, nor as articulate as they might be—publicly—but their services are needed now, by Uncle Sam, and they will not be stopped from serving by a few critics whose words will soon go the way of all flesh.

Fife, drum, and gun belong to the ways of men. The privilege of serving has always been woman's. Let us permit her to serve.

ALL A PRINTER HAS TO KNOW

Anybody could master the printing business in a few hundred years. All it takes is spelling, spooking competitiors, keeping cuts from rocking, ink from caking, paper from sulking and compositors from distributing more than half the time.

Oh, maybe a little memory course thrown in; enough to remember that Cutsomer Caffy likes orange red, Cutsomer Kidd tomato red, Customer Kane cranberry red, and that Customer Campbell sees red every time he sees red, and Customer Quinn sees red if you don't give him cobalt blue.

To be a real upper-crust printer, one ought to learn where a mechanic leaves off and a craftsman begins, where an artisan leaves off and an artist begins, but shucks! that's easy . . . . ask 'em. All in all, printing's easy to learn, given time enough.

CURIOSITY AND THE CAT

James F. (Jimmy) Byrnes, War Mobilization Director, has taken aim at one of the more critical problems in Washington—the epidemic of Congressional investigations. Inquiry follows inquiry until the cat who died of curiosity is turning in his famous grave.

Mr. Byrnes has asked each House to designate a single committee through which all controversies growing out of war affairs might be channeled to the executive branch of the Federal government.

Beginning as far back as the spring preparedness effort in 1940, many key defense officials have spent hour upon hour explaining themselves to various investigating committees. Practically all you have to do to get investigated is go to Washington and sit down at a desk. The necessity of preparing testimony and keeping records for possible further appearances adds its quota of waste paper and hours to the question and answer game.

Let's hope Mr. Byrnes can do something to stem the tide of inquiry. Let's not waste the time of our war directors who need to get on with the job of winning said war.

"DOWN TO EARTH"

The vigor and enthusiasm which Mr. and Mrs. America have applied to the Victory Garden has exceeded the fondest expectations of the Department of Agriculure. One estimate puts the number of gardens at twenty-one million.

Still, all is not well. According to H. W. Hochbaum, director of the program for the Department, the exuberant "return to the soil," coupled with inexperience, has caused the planting of too many seeds at one time. Now—all at one time—comes a bumper crop of lettuce, spinach and other greens from the Victory Gardeners. Mr. Hochbaum fears that individual capacity for these vegetables will be overworked!

He points out that the need is for a staggering of crops, or better distribution of planting, so that there will be an even flow of garden produce over a longer period. The production of food, even on a small scale, requires some pattern of scientific management in rotation of crops, if Victory Gardening is to contribute substantially to the war effort, rather than proving to be wasted effort and maerials.

Let's get "down to earth" on our garden program!

COLLEGE CAMPUS

Most college campuses in the country now are arsenals manned by soldiers and sailors who march to and from class, singing to make it seem pleasanter. The dreamy pre-Pearl Harbor look is gone. No time to sit under the campus trees in summer sunshine, while bees and birds and butterflies flit by. All is changed.

Thousands of faculty members of colleges and universities throughout the country have left their classrooms to enter the armed services or war industries. From the campus of the University of California, some 400 faculty members have gone forth to war.

It's to be hoped, however, that the importance of education, and a braoder education than war subjects permit—will remain clear in the minds of the public. We must keep afloat the one hope of democracy—education for all.

The Ira Grim family were the happy recipients of a phone call last night from their son and brother, Arnold, who had flown into Los Angeles for a few hours on service duty.

Corporal and Mrs. Noel Voge spent Sunday here with Mrs. Lillian Voge, Noel going on to Stanford for three months course in area and language study. His wife will join him there soon.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

The Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded Staff Sgt. Doyle Kimmery of Huntington, Texas, for manning a sub-machine gun and returning the fire of low-flying enemy planes during the Jap attack on Hickam Field. When his ammunition was gone he ran from the cover of his truck to get more, and kept firing until the truck was bombed. He showed bravery beyond the call of duty. Figure out for yourself how much you can invest in War Savings beyond what you are doing now.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Klondike Mike" by Merrill Denison.

Here is a biography of a man whose life has been lived hard, clean and straightforward. Klindike Mike Mahoney is one of the few men who went to Alaska in the big gold rush, struck it rich and managed to come out with his stake intact.

Mike Mahoney, Canadian, wandered casually up White Pass in 1897. He was young at that time and a giant. He was a superb physical specimen, for he never drank, or smoked. His only vice was chewing gum. From the early years of his life when he left home to live with his uncle in Michigan and labor in a lumber mill to the end of his successful struggles in the gold fields in Alaska, he piled up unbroken records of endurance under the most guelling conditions.

Mike was a member of a Canadian family, poor in material things, but rich in courage, determination and right thinking. His mother's one ardent desire was that Mike get an education, but his father said it was a waste of time for him to get "book larnin." What would help Mike most of his life time was a strong back and hard muscles. So Mike's boyhood was made up of days, weeks, months and years of labor, man-killing labor, in lumber mills in the deep of the Canadian mountains. Mike always went in for physical displays of strength. He trained earnestly to box and to high kick, to wrestle and to rough and tumble fight. He was always in some kind of a brawl, apparently because of his aloofness. He never invited fights, which seemed to irritate the aggresive type.

Mike was twenty-one years old when he reached Alaska. With his previous years of physical endurance behind him he was ready and fit to undertake the hardships of the frozen gold fields. He was the great musher of his time, often covering 80 miles a day by dog team. He once walked over the man-killing Chilkoot Pass carrying a piano on his back. He knew Robert Service, Jack London, Soapy Smith — his stories about Soapy are classic. It was in Alaska that Mike met romance in the person of a lovely nurse who became his wife and who turned to and helped him run the mine that made their fortune.

Not only is this book the exciting chronicle of the happenings in one man's life, but it is also the whole colorful story of one of the most thrilling periods in American history.

Ice Follies No. 1 Entertainment

After establishing new attendance records in twenty major cities from coast to coast, the Ice Follies of 1943, the Shipstads' and Johnson's famed musical revue on ice, is back home at Winterland in San Francisco, for the fifth successive year of what the critics have acclaimed "the No. 1 entertainment of the nation."

All previous attendance records have been broken on the current tour of the Ice Follies. Boston, New York, Montreal, Seattle, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago, set new attendance records in their mammoth ice palaces, and judging by advance interest locally San Francisco will surpass its attendance record of last season.

Nothing has been spared to make the current edition of the Ice Follies the most spectacular production of its seven year history. Production numbers such as "Nursery Rhymes," "Indian Legend," "Arabian Nights," "Sunday-go-to-Meeting" and "Dress Parade" combine multi-colored lighting, gorgeous costuming and brilliant decor to make Alladin-like magic of a rapid fire spectacle in motion.

New luminaries of the skating world have been added to the cast of long-time San Francisco favorites. Among the former are the "blonde blitz" Betty Atkinson, the Irish-Canadian beauty, Norah McCarthy, and the Nova Scotia whirlwind, Michael Kirby. Stand-bys of the Ice Follies who will again grace the Winterland rink are Mae Ross, Roy Shipstad, Bess Ehrhardt, Osborne Colson, Fran Claudet, Eddie Shipstad, Oscar Johnson, Frick and Frack, Ruby and Bobby Maxson, Bobby Widholm, Murry Galbraith, and last but not least the sixty beautiful girls comprising the Ice Follettes.

As a special convenience, so that patrons may fully avail themselves of transportation and other facilities operating under wartime schedule, the nightly performances will commence at 8:00 p. m. instead of at 8:30 p. m. as in other years.

Orchard City Grange

Orchard City Grange met Tuesday, June 22 in I. O. O. F. hall, Campbell.

Lecture program under the direction of Mrs. Nellie C. Rutherford. Speaker of the evening was Supervisor Joe McKinnon. His subject was "Taxation and Pensions."

He stated that charity expenses have increased twice as much this year over the previous year. The 1942 election cost the county $99,000, but even so, the taxes were cut 10 per cent. The reduction, he said, would have been reduced by 19 percent, but 9 per cent of that was used for civilian defense, mostly initial equipment.

He quoted the county bonded indebtedness as $40,000, being paid off at the rate of $10,000 a year. This is the lowest county bonded indebtedness in the United States.

The relief load dropped from 1352 cases in 1942 to 773 in 1943, a saving of $14,000 to the taxpayers. He also explained the revisions of the old age pension system and told of the improvements in the pension system made by the legislature.

Next Saturday night will be the meeting of Santa Clara County Pomona Grange at the Morgan Hill Grange hall. It will open with a pot luck dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

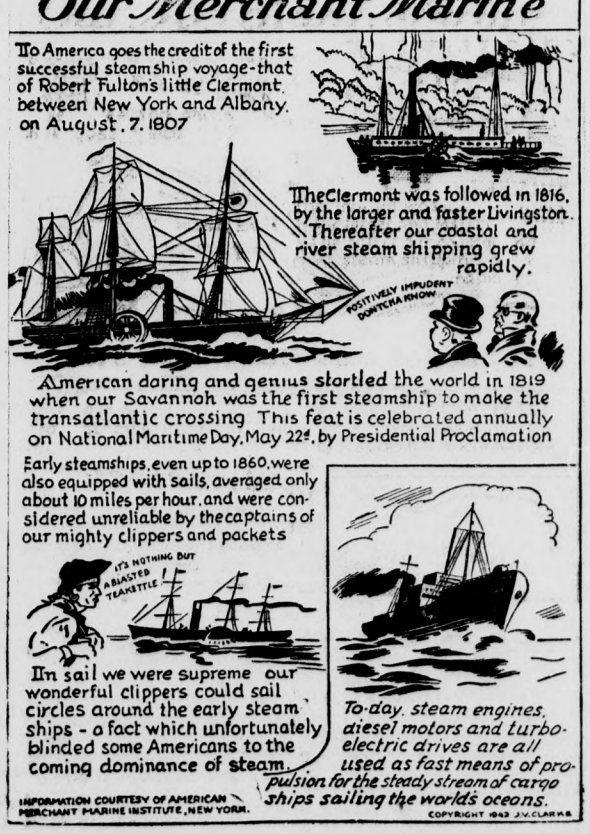
Air Raid Defense Drill Is Success

The air raid defense drill held last night for five unincorporated areas was in general quite successful as far as Campbell was concerned, according to report made by supervising army officers and other observers, to chairman W. H. Van Dyke.

All local volunteers were at their posts and the speed with which the fire equipment was dispatched to the "incidents," was commended, messenger service and first aid units functioned satisfactorily.

These drills are valuable training in case of real need, the supervisors state, as things would be much more difficult then.

Our Merchant Marine



To America goes the credit of the first successful steamship voyage-that of Robert Fulton's little Clermont between New York and Albany on August, 7. 1807
The Clermont was followed in 1816, by the larger and faster Livingston. Thereafter our coastal and river steam shipping grew rapidly.
POSITIVELY IMPUDENT DONTCHA KNOW
American daring and genius startled the world in 1819 when our Savannah was the first steamship to make the transatlantic crossing This feat is celebrated annually on National Maritime Day, May 22d, by Presidential Proclamation
Early steamships, even up to 1860, were also equipped with sails, averaged only about 10 miles per hour, and were considered unreliable by the captains of our mighty clippers and packets
IT'S NOTHING BUT A BLASTED TEAKETTLE
In sail we were supreme our wonderful clippers could sail circles around the early steam ships - a fact which unfortunately blinded some Americans to the coming dominance of steam.
To-day, steam engines, diesel motors and turbo-electric drives are all used as fast means of propulsion for the steady stream of cargo ships sailing the world's oceans.

Forms Available For Renewal of "A" Gas Coupons

Application forms for renewal by mail of "A" gasoline ration coupon books are available to motorists at all offices of the California State Automobile association and at service stations and rationing boards, beginning Monday, June 28.

The procedure set up by the OPA calls for filling out the brief form and mailing it with signed back cover of present "A" book and current tire inspection record to your local rationing board. New "A" and "D" books will be mailed to applicants by the boards.

The back cover of the applicant's "A" book now in use will be an important part of the application, since it will be evidence that the owner held a properly issued ration and is entitled to a renewal. Be sure your name and address are written on this cover.

The tire inspection record for the new ration year will be detached by boards from the application form and mailed back to the applicant with the new "A" coupon book.

Tax Levies In County Are Down

Property tax levies in Santa Clara county averaged $34.29 per person in 1942-43, down from the $35.31 per capita levied in 1941-42, California Taxpayers' association stated today.

Total levy on property in the county for 1942-43 was $6,618,088 — up from the $6,515,112 levied for 1941-42, the association found. The total includes levies of the county, cities, schools and other districts. Some irrigation and reclamation districts not reporting centrally are not included, since data for such districts are not available.

"Legislative relief to counties and school districts, plus war-time economies on all levels of local government, should bring a real reduction in the property taxes levied in the county for 1943-44," the association declared.

Two tickets to the Campbell Theatre are awaiting Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Farnham. Call at Press office.

On Guadalcanal—

"One morning we installed a transformer. At noon a Jap bomb scored a direct hit with a thousand pounder and we couldn't tell which direction it went..."

This is a war in which technical civilian skills are proving invaluable on many fighting fronts.

Down in Guadalcanal, for example, when the U. S. Marines pushed the Japs off the island, a complete electric system was left behind by the fleeing Nips. It had been pretty thoroughly bombed and strafed, but an electrical repair crew from the U. S. Navy Task Force came ashore and went to work.

Day after day and night after night the Jap flyers came back to send bombs crashing down on the men as they repaired the electric system. But skilled hands used to "trouble shooting" back home worked right through the storm of war to put the generators, the transformers and the lines back into service. Now the lights are on, refrigerators are humming and electric razors are trimming beards with electricity from what the boys affectionately call, "The South Seas Light and Power Company".

This company feels particulary proud that two of the valiant electricians were former P. G. and E. employees, Chief Electrician's Mate William J. Evans, a line foreman at Tracy, and Asa S. "Ace" Anthony, an electrician's helper from Emeryville.

As this war goes on, there will no doubt be many stories about the men of this company, who are now more than 2300 strong in the armed forces. Each one is fighting to see that the lights stay bright wherever our flag flies.
